

Jamie McNaughton

Project Manager for CCR Construction Ltd.

Jamie started working in construction at the age of nineteen. He has worked as a Project Manager for most of his career across several companies and loves his career. He sees the industry as being unique in the amount that a person can grow and expand their skillset and opportunities. He thinks youth need to learn construction is a field you can go wherever you want and not just be a laborer. Through work training you can truly find the job you want to do by experiencing it, versus sitting in a classroom and realizing maybe you want to do something else. Jamie has a lot of pride in this industry and through the RCA Board of Directors he hopes to be a bigger part of it.
