

Kris Ross Hipperson Construction

Kris is a Senior Project Manager and Partner at Hipperson Construction with 13 years' experience in the Commercial, Institutional, Civil and Industrial Construction markets in Saskatchewan.

Born and raised in Regina, he was always curious about how things were put together, or by his experiments, came apart. He completed his BAsC. degree in Industrial Systems Engineering at the University of Regina. Kris has been a registered Professional Engineer with APEGS since 2015 and is a Canadian Construction Association accredited Gold Seal Project Manager since 2016, which he advanced to Professional Gold Seal status in 2021. Kris is well connected in the Regina and Saskatchewan construction industry and maintains a wide network of contacts including material suppliers, sub-trade contractors, clients and consultants that he developed over the years collaborating on the numerous projects he has completed.

As Senior Project Manager, Kris demonstrates honesty and integrity as part of his daily responsibilities and is ethically responsible as a Professional Engineer. His leadership abilities have developed through his mentorship of Project Managers and Estimators in the Hipperson Construction office.

Kris is running for his second two-year term with the RCA board. He was first elected as a director in 2021 and has become familiar with board governance and the RCA's mission, values, and strategic plan. He strives to support the RCA board and member companies in any way possible and looks forward to the potential of another term. Kris is currently serving as the board appointed liaison to the re-vitalized Future Construction Leaders (FCL) chapter of the RCA, in which he helps plan networking and social events, education sessions, and industry nights all with the goal of attracting and developing new leaders within the construction industry.

Outside of the office, Kris loves to travel, test his skills in the kitchen, golf, snowboard, spend weekends at the cabin, and practice tricks with his 2-year-old Aussie Shepherd.
